Lenz

Lenz Weinberg Dolomiten White IGT

GRAPE

Cuvée of 3 local white grape varieties

WINE GROWING AREA

These vines grow on the sunny hills of the Upper Etsch Valley and the Lowlands, at an altitude of about 250 – 450 metres.

VINIFICATION

The different grapes are delivered to the winery separately. There, after a short maceration period, they are gently pressed, clarified and individually fermented in stainless steel tanks at a controlled temperature of 20°C.

WINE DESCRIPTION

Meaning springtime, our “Lenz” blend is as sprightly and as lighthearted as its namesake. This fruity cuvée, with aromas of apple blossom, flowers and grass, is reminiscent of a field of flowers awakening to spring, balanced and elegant. Its fresh character gives it a delicate, animated acidity on the tongue and an exceptionally well-balanced aftertaste, leaving an extremely vibrant impression.

RECCOMENDATION

The full variety of flavours is best revealed when our “Lenz” is drunk as an aperitif or enjoyed with light starters, pasta dishes, risotto or fish. Like this, its fine bouquet can unfold, prompting your tastebuds to burst into bloom.
